Arson not the cause of Okeelanta fire

The Assistant State Fire Marshall has ruled out arson as the cause of a fire April 10 at Okeelanta Sugar Corporation.

Mr. Richard Schuler said the fire was accidental and started in the southeast most corner of the equipment storage building. He said the building was closed and locked at the time of the fire.

Insurance adjusters also went to the site Thursday and listed the damages at $4.3 million.

Canal Point hosted County two meetings

The monthly meetings of the Historic Palm Beach County Preservation Board and the Historic Palm Beach County Inc. Board of Directors meetings took place at the Canal Point Community Center.

After the meetings, both groups took a walking tour of the Canal Point area including the old Canal Point Elementary School and the Apple Custard Inn.

The board made a motion to begin to explore the planning process to revitalize the Canal Point Elementary School in conjunction with the Palm Beach County Planning Council and the citizens of Canal Point.

The group decided they would assist the Canal Point Recovery group (CPR) in obtaining grants and grant information.

CPR group was formed March 21st of this year and hopes to have several landmarks in and around Canal Point declared Historical Sites.

This means Canal Point could qualify for hundreds of thousands of dollars in grant monies according to a local CPR official.

The final decision to declare Historical Sites rest with Tallahassee and Palm Beach County.

The guests were treated to their choice of frog legs, gator, or catfish for lunch.

Man charged with attempted 2nd degree murder

A 36-year-old Belle Glade man is in jail today charged with attempted 2nd degree murder after he allegedly got into a fight over a woman.

Marcorel Pierre, of 612 S.W. Avenue E, Apartment 11, Belle Glade is in the Palm Beach County Jail with no bond after he stabbed Celestine Lune, several times in the head, chest, and thigh area last Saturday night, according to police.

Belle Glade Agent Angelette Green responded to the call and Lune was taken to Glades General Hospital and required multiple stitches to close his wounds.

Police say Pierre also had two active warrants for his arrest.

Grower Sam Knight dies 3 days after being beaten and robbed

By Brenda Bunting Editor

Well-known cane and vegetable grower Sam N. Knight Sr., age 76, died Monday night in his Singer Island home just three days after he and his wife Mary Jo were robbed and beaten in their Belle Glade home.

Police are awaiting an autopsy report to determine if Mr. Knight died of the injuries he sustained after he and his wife were beaten with a chair in the robbery.

Charged in the burglary is a man who just got out of prison January 7 after serving two years of a nine and 1/2 year sentence for another burglary in Belle Glade with violence. Officers say Willie James Outler, 34, of 417 Golden Place in Pahokee has confessed to the Knight crime.

Results of the autopsy on Mr. Knight are expected by Friday and if they show Mr. Knight died from injuries he received in the burglary, police say Outler could face murder charges.

Mrs. Knight said her husband had been recuperating from radiation treatments after a bout with cancer and had been getting along fine before the burglary in the early morning hours of April 17.

Belle Glade Police say they received a call of a burglary in progress at 865 Fleming Drive Belle Glade at 5:23 a.m. Friday morning from the Knight's live-in nurse.

Mrs. Knight told officers she got up about 4 a.m. the morning of the burglary and shut off the burglar alarm system and unlocked the door.

Ladies meet with water officials

By Brenda Bunting Editor

SWIM officials found themselves wading in deep water last Thursday as members of the Ladies of the Everglades asked hard questions about the clean up of the Everglades.

The group of about 60 farm wives wanted to know if the clean up of the Everglades was "a done deal" or if the District was serious about looking at an alternative plan submitted a week ago by the Florida Sugar Cane League.

South Florida Water Management District Deputy Executive Director Tom MacVicar and Pete Rhodes, Director of the Everglades Restoration Project, asked for the meeting. It was held at the Dolly Hand Cultural Arts Center in Belle Glade.

"The board inserted special language in the plan to look at alternative plans," MacVicar told the women, "but (in the mean time) we will not slow down on this plan."

MacVicar said the women's group got the attention of the District with letters and telephone calls.

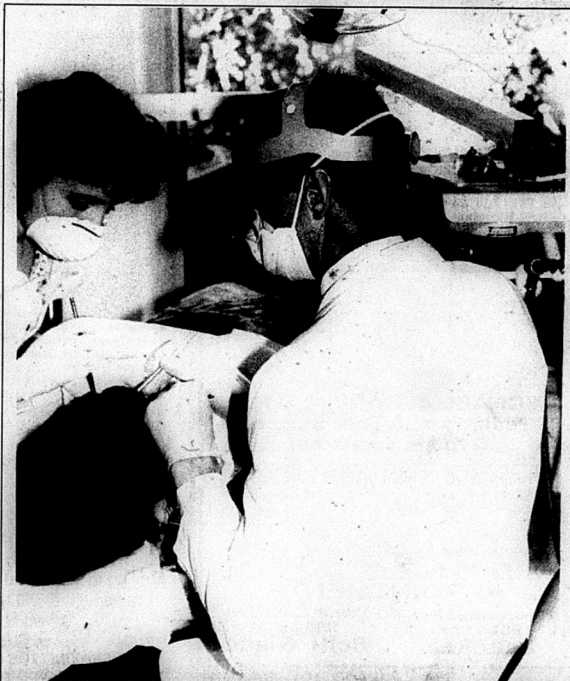

"I know you're frustrated," MacVicar told them, "but there's enough frustration to go around."

The catchy stickers worn by the group to many of the board meetings also got the attention of the District, according to MacVicar.

"The stickers saying 'Cleaner than rain is insane' is very effective and it got our attention," MacVicar said. "It's hard to react to," he added.

"But if you think anyone is being asked to clean up water cleaner than rainwater, that's

Dentist calms fear of AIDS transmission by showing new sterilization techniques

By Bill Phillips Staff reporter

Some people are even afraid to go to the dentist to get their teeth cleaned. With all the recent publicity about two Palm Beach County dentists' having Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (A.I.D.S.) and the fact that the disease could have been spread by dental office visits, the public has just cause for concern. We spoke to an area dentist, Dr. Ray Behm and his staff about how they deal with their patients' fears.

Dr. Behm graduated from Emory University School of Dentistry, Atlanta, Georgia, class of 1968 and moved to the Glades in 1973.

He said, "We want to promote a friendly, caring environment. We have allocated about five times as much space to sterilization as our previous facility. We are complying with, and going a few steps beyond insuring there is full protection to our patients and staff from possibility of cross infection.

"All of our handpieces are steam heat sterilized (autoclaved) after every patient along with all instruments used," said Dr. Behm.

With their new spacious sterilization room, they have easier and more control over the instrument flow. When a patient sits down in one of their chairs, they are sitting in a room nearly as clean as a hospital operating room.

"While nothing is perfect, we take every possible precaution including the rubber gloves, face mask, goggles, whatever it takes to insure our patients' and our staff's safety. We try to provide a stress free environment as well," he concluded.

He recently built and moved into a new building at 124 S.W. First Street, Belle Glade.

The office is a one story brick building beautifully landscaped with tropical plants and is located across the street from Gilbert Jeweler's.

"We are particularly proud of our facility design and hope that it will necessarily comfort our friends that visit us. Special acknowledgement is made to Paige Hundley, recent graduate of Florida State School of Graphic Design, for her assistance and choice in color-flow and design, both inside and outside the building. There are two super works of Belle Glade's own Ann Tyler that especially accent the reception room."

When asked why he decided to locate his new office in that particular location, Dr. Behm said, "Many of our patients complained they had trouble in our old location finding a parking place. We have 14 spaces which gives them plenty of room and easy access to the office." (More photos page 5)

Man charged with armed robbery

The first ferris wheel was erected at the 1893 Columbian Exposition in Chicago.

Israel Hester, age 22 of Belle Glade is charged with allegedly demanding money from another man at knife point at the K-Country Store on 16th Street last Thursday evening. Police say Walter Williams of 522 S.W. 9th Street, Belle Glade said he was getting gas at the store when he was approached by a man armed with a knife who demanded money.

Mr. Williams said he ran into K-Country and the robber fled. Officer Robin Hollingsworth responded to the complaint and Officer Reuben Prince, who was also in the area observed a man who fit the description. Mr. Williams identified Hester who was later booked into the Palm Beach County Jail under bond for armed robbery and resisting arrest without violence.

Sam Knight

She said Mr. Knight was up watching television at the time and that she went back to bed.

The next thing she says she saw was a figure crouched in the doorway rifling through her purse.

The man then demanded money from her and she said when Mr. Knight came to the door the man turned and attacked Sam Sr. with a wooden chair.

She got her .25-caliber pistol and confronted the attacker but he took the gun away from her and hit her with the chair several times before fleeing the home with Mr. Knight's wallet and the gun.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Knight were taken to Glades General Hospital and treated for their injuries. Mrs. Knight was released but Mr. Knight was transported to Good Samaritan Hospital where he was treated and released Friday afternoon.

Police set up a perimeter around the Knight house and the K-9 dogs were called in with the assistance of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office.

They canvassed the neighborhood and began searching for the suspect and found that Outler had registered that morning at the Waldessa Motel.

Detective Sgt. Albert Dowdell recovered the gun. Outler had allegedly sold the gun on the street for $25.

Outler is charged with armed burglary of an occupied dwelling, which carries a life sentence, armed robbery, two counts of aggravated battery on an elderly person, grand theft of a firearm, use of a firearm in the commission of a felon, and possession of a fire arm by a convicted felon.

Outler is being held without bond and is scheduled to go before Judge Michael Miller Thursday morning for arraignment.

not true," he told the group. The women also wanted to know why agricultural scientists were not allowed to do research in the Everglades National Park and why they have been denied some documents. MacVicar said the Department of the Interior sets the criteria for how scientists can go into the Park and if agricultural scientists meet all the same standards, they will be allowed to go in.

You goofed on the Kissimmee River Restoration," said one woman, "and they're no more. Are you going to mess with sugar cane farmers and then say 'oops we goofed' when were out of business?"

"If the South Florida Water Management District has anything to say about it, you will continue farming," MacVicar told her.

The current Surface Water Improvement and Management plan calls for an estimated $400 million for Everglades Agricultural Area related construction, land acquisition and research and monitoring programs.

The SFWMD contends that phosphorus entering the Everglades Protection Area fails to meet water quality standards. A state law was mandated in 1987 that requires the District to restore and protect the Arthur R. Marshall Loxahatchee National Wildlife Refuge, the Water Conservation Area 1, 2B, 3A and 3B and the Everglades National Park.

District officials say that to reduce the phosphorus loads to the 80 percent reduction required, by the plan will require 35,000 acres of farmland to be taken out production.

The land will be set aside for the creation of man-made cleansing marshes (called STAs, or Stromwater Treatment Areas) to act as a "kidney" filter for phosphorus entering the Everglades from the EAA.

Marianne Bishop, a Clewiston farm wife, asked if the economic impact study the District is conducting shows that 15,000 to 20,000 jobs will be lost if they proceed with the current plan, would they proceed anyway.

"I very much doubt our board would vote for anything that would impact that many jobs," MacVicar said.

"The earth has never supported so many people," said Jo Hatton, Pahokee farm wife. "If you take out the food chain for the higher evolution (people) you have a problem."

District Board member Ken Adams, who voted against implementation of the SWIM Plan, also spoke to the group.

"This has been the most difficult issue I've ever dealt with," he said, "but there's not a better group of problem solvers than the people of the Glades and I think if we sit down together, we can solve this problem."

MacVicar said the governing board will meet the second week of May and farmers will then be required to get temporary operating permits.

An economic impact study on the current SWIM Plan will probably be out in July, he added.

"Everybody needs to roll up their sleeves, quit fighting and suing each other, share information and get on with this," said MacVicar.

Okeelanta establishes $100,000 scholarship from U.S. 27 land sale

Okeelanta Corporation has established the Fanjul Academic and Community Excellence (ACE) Award and scholarship program for western Palm Beach County high schools at Florida Atlantic University.

The program was funded with a $100,000 endowment from Okeelanta Corporation, and an additional $50,000 from the State of Florida through its matching funds program.

According to Alfonso Fanjul, Chairman of the Fanjul Companies, Okeelanta's parent company, the initial endowment was created with proceeds from Okeelanta Corporation's sale of 40 acres of land surrounding U.S. 27 in south Palm Beach County to the Florida Department of Transportation.

The $2,500 per year, for four years, scholarship can be used toward tuition, books and lodging at FAU and is available to graduating seniors at Pahokee High, Glades Central and Clewiston High School.

Why isn't the South Bay library open?

Yes. They got a pretty library over here in South Bay just sitting there, and it just looks like it's empty.

Would you see why it's not opened up yet? It wouldn't be because they didn't ask for enough money to get any furniture would it?

Editor's note: It sounds like you've heard some rumors and this was a tongue-in-cheek question. I asked Mayor Clarence Anthony, whom the library is named after, to reply to your question. Here was his response.

"The problem has been that the county did not coordinate the furnishing of the library with the completion of the facility in a timely manner. The city is very upset about this delay. We are anxious to get this open for the kids of South Bay. We anticipate the library will be open by the end of May.

While I can sympathize with the caller's problem, I can only suggest they take their business elsewhere. There are many very polite business owners in the Glades who would be glad to have your business and the money you generate.

Giron, Perfiles De Infamia Y De Coraje

"No podemos permitir que los destrocen allí". Siete palabras -- el mismo número de las que pronunció Jesucristo en la Cruz -- dirigidas al joven presidente, por su Almirante Arleigh Burke, horas antes de iniciarse la invasión.

"Pero -- insistía el Almirante -- si ya estamos implicados. Nosotros hemos adiestrado y armado a esos hombres".

Pero... a pesar de esas palabras, que muy bien pudieran haber sido arrancadas de las páginas del libro PERFILES DE CORAJE, escrito por él, antes de que fuera presidente, la tesis de la imparcialidad (!) se impuso, y Kennedy asumió la responsabilidad de abandonarlos a su suerte.

Bahía de Cochinos? Que profundas son sus soledades y recuerdos cuando el alma es profunda. En las arenas de sus playas se sembraron nuestras ilusiones, abonadas con sangre de héroes, y germinaron junto a ellas, que amargo es decirlo, las miserias de los hombres mas friamente daniferos y ponzoñosos de la escala humana: los apostatas.

Concebido durante la administración republicana del Presidente Eisenhower, el demócrata Presidente John F. Kennedy lo encontró todo preparado y continuo adelante.

La estrategia militar inicial fue trazada por el gobierno norteamericano, sin la participación debida de los cubanos exiliados, políticos y militares, que se vieron obligados a depositar toda su confianza en Washington, confiados en la invencibilidad, el honor y el prestigio del Gobierno norteamericano. a

La Brigada 2506, formada por hombres y niños de primera, cuya mayor parte se adiestraba en Guatemala, patrocinada y protegida -- de acuerdo con Washington -- por el Presidente de aquella República, enamorado de la libertad de Cuba, Mugal Idigoras Fuente, llevaría a cabo la invasión, con el respaldo aereo de los Estados Unidos.

La representación de la Brigada, que estaba a cargo del Consejo Revolucionario Cubano presidido por Jose Miro Cardona, fue recibido en la Casa Blanca por el Presidente Kennedy, que se mostraba muy interesado en que se mantuviera la invasión en secreto. Un secreto a voces, compartido por el espionaje ruso y castrista, del que se habían hecho eco los cables internacionales y la prensa americana.

El control norteamericano casi absoluto, como hemos dicho, de la operación militar, basada en su total aporte logístico, resultó ser funesto. La Casa Blanca vetó el desembarco por Trinidad-Casilda. Este había sido el lugar ideal seleccionado inicialmente por los militares norteamericanos y por el Servicio de Inteligencia que planeaban la operación; pero fue considerado demasiado revelador de la presencia estadounidense, y se optó por Playa Giron o Bahía de Cochinos, de condiciones estratégicas muy inferiores.

Iniciada la invasión, el Presidente Kennedy convoca a sus asesores militares y políticos, y se produce la reunión de la que destacamos, al inicio de este trabajo, las palabras del Oficial que desempeñaba el cargo supremo de la Armada. Palabras dantescas, preludio de lo que aconteció después, en las arenas en donde se enterraron nuestras ilusiones, abonadas con sangre de héroes; y en las prisiones a donde los soldados de la Brigada fueron a purgar la cobardía de quien, al aceptar posteriormente toda la culpa, reconoció la deuda pendiente de esta gran Nación con nuestra Patria inmolada.

ENVÍO: a Alvaro Sanchez, Jr., el Padre de la Brigada 2506, que hubiera preferido ir a rescatarla, a golpes de coraje, con las armas en las manos.

Letter to the editor

Dear News Editor:

Every year in American, up to 15 million dogs and cats are killed simply because there are not enough good homes for them.

The are sentenced to death for the "crime" of being born. Thank heaven most shelters at the last try to administer that sentence in the most merciful manner possible.

But there is an alternative. Doesn't it make infinitely more sense to prevent pet over population through reproductive control than to try and "cure" it by killing these poor animals?

Of course it does! Especially when you realize that two uncontrolled breeding cats, plus their kittens and all their kittens' kittens if none are spayed or neutered, have the potential to multiply to more than 80 million cats during a 10 year breeding life.

In addition to making sense from a humane perspective, it also makes sense from an economic perspective. Every dollar spent by a community today on spaying and neutering dogs and cats can save $18 in the next 10 years.

Let's urge officials to act immediately to promote more aggressive spaying and neutering programs to stop this killing of innocent animals.

Sincerely,

Agriculture and the Environment can co-exist

By Tilford C. Creel

Executive Director, South Florida Water Management District

Recent sugar industry letters to the media, and to 'Glades area residents, prompt me to clarify some important misrepresentations concerning the Everglades SWIM Plan recently adopted by the Governing Board of the South Florida Water Management District.

On March 12, the Board voted to approve the SWIM Plan which calls for number of measures that will ultimately lead to an eighty percent reduction in phosphorus levels entering the Everglades. It is important to understand that the SWIM Plan is just that -- a plan. It is not a self-implementing document. It provides us with a much-needed blueprint -- which can be revised -- to protect and restore the Everglades.

The need for such a plan was brought to the forefront as far back as 1983 when, in conjunction with the state, the District identified Everglades restoration as a priority objective. The purpose then, as it is now, is to restore more natural flows and preserve Everglades habitat.

The SWIM Plan is not something hurriedly resolved the issue of Everglades protection together without research, thought or effort. In fact, the Everglades SWIM Plan has been under development since 1988, with supporting documents collected from years of study. Five draft versions of the Plan were discussed at fifty-four public meetings beginning in 1989 and continuing through final adoption. While representatives of the agricultural industry have been present at every Governing Board meeting, public workshop, and committee meeting, they have repeatedly declined our invitation to sit down in a serious and constructive fashion and resolve the issue of Everglades protection alternatives. (See "NOTE" at bottom).

Despite assurances by the Board to the contrary, misleading material continues to be distributed purporting that the South Florida Water Management District intends to "create economic chaos" in towns around the lake. That is precisely what the Board does not want to happen. Therefore, I feel compelled to respond to the arguments being presented:

Loss of jobs: Contrary to what the sugar industry and agriculture would have others believe, the District is very concerned with the economic impact on the communities of the EAA and has underway a comprehensive study to determine how the Plan would affect the region's economy. The Board has made it clear that it will not proceed with implementation of the Plan until the results of that study are available -- sometime this summer. While there are specific timelines in the document, adoption of the SWIM Plan does not mean any land acquisition or construction will immediately begin on the proposed conversion of 35,000 acres of farmland to wetlands.

A "secret" settlement: The Everglades settlement document and hundreds of thousands of supporting documents are not "secret" and are available to anyone. However, as in any litigation, confidential discussions took place between the principal parties involved in the Everglades lawsuit. In addition, a small number of attorney work products in the case -- which are currently the subject of a public records lawsuit -- have not, to date, been released to agricultural lawyers. Absolutely no data or scientific analysis have been withheld.

"Cleaner than rain" standards: A popular catch phrase used by those opposed to the SWIM Plan is that the plan requires phosphorus concentrations "twice as clean as rain." SWIM water quality criteria are not connected to the amount of phosphorus in rainfall, but rather to the amount of phosphorus that the Everglades can safely absorb. The Department of Environmental Regulation has already documented that current phosphorus levels (150 parts per billion) entering water conservation areas from the EAA are violating water quality standards and creating adverse impacts. The goal of SWIM, which incorporates the best science to date, is to reduce these concentrations to an amount that will not cause further harm.

"It is not the Board's intention to eliminate farming in the EAA -- is to make agriculture compatible with the long-term protection and preservation of the Everglades."

Tilford C. Creel

No alternatives were considered: As mentioned earlier, the SWIM process has been open to public comment and review since the first draft was completed in 1989. And, as the Board reiterated, adoption of the SWIM plan on March 12 does not permanently close the door; we are still open to considering scientifically-based alternatives. To help pursue possible alternatives, a twenty-one member Scientific Advisory Group for the Everglades (SAGE) -- which includes representatives from the agricultural industry -- has been established to make scientific and engineering recommendations to the Board.

We recognize that farming is a vital industry to this area, the state and the nation. Those who were in attendance at the March 12 vote, know that the decision was not an easy one. The Board and staff listened carefully to each and every speaker. We were moved by the passion with which opinions were expressed -- from those representing the interests of agriculture to the small businessmen who depend on the farming industry for their livelihood. Still, after many years of study and debate, the SWIM plan represents what we consider to be the most scientifically-sound plan to clean up phosphorus-rich water entering the Everglades from EAA farms.

It is not the Board's intention to eliminate farming in the EAA -- is to make agriculture compatible with the long-term protection and preservation of the Everglades. Restoration of the Everglades has been mandated by law. It is now up to all of us -- the agriculture industry, environmentalists, and urban users -- to make it happen. I believe it can happen, and I look to the cooperation and participation of the industry.

Facing this new challenge will require the same resilience and resourcefulness that agriculture has shown in the past when facing difficult situations. But surely, together, we can find ways for a healthy industry to co-exist with a healthy environment.

NOTE: On April 9, 1992, representatives of the agricultural community presented the SFWMD Governing Board with an alternative plan for reducing phosphorus amounts entering the Everglades. The Board voted unanimously to consider the scientific merits of the plan and acknowledged the industry's proposal as a positive step toward reaching a cooperative solution.

Bunny Day featured

By Cynthia Ray
 Glades Resource Coordinator
 Cities in Schools of Palm Beach County coordinated a Bunny Day, Wednesday, April 15, for Head Start children from programs in South Bay, Pahokee, and the migrant program in Belle Glade. Over 200 children joined 150 students from Cities in Schools programs at Glades Central High School, Lake Shore Middle School, School of C.H.O.I.C.E., and Pahokee Middle/High School.

Martin Luther King Jr., Park in Pahokee was festive with balloons and sounds of singing and joy. The children enjoyed the Easter Egg Hunt, receiving gifts for silver eggs found. Adrian Banks from Pahokee Middle School and Ajani Hammond from School of C.H.O.I.C.E. were winners of the poster contest.

Later, the magician Jose, from Belle Glade, entertained, and the Easter Bunny (Acting Mayor Ramon Horta of Pahokee) magically appeared. Jills, the clown, painted tiny bunnies of smiling faces of all the children and Jose created balloon animals that brought smiles of joy. The children also enjoyed the live bunnies that had been supplied by Diana Bratcher from Royal Palm Beach.

Joe Fisher of W.S.W.N. provided excitement and coverage of the party with his on site coverage.

Commissioner Roy Singletary was master of ceremonies and introduced Antoine Russell, principal of Pahokee's School of Choice, who spoke about the Cities in Schools program; and Betty Caldwell who spoke on behalf of Head Start.

Carol Robertson thrilled all by her rendition of "How Great Thou Art" thus bringing the true joy of the easter season to the afternoon. Mayor Horta was seen mingling with the children to see that each and everyone was enjoying themselves and that they were refreshed with beverages donated by Horta and Sons Enterprises.

Marlene Crosby of the Pahokee Chamber of Commerce baked desserts.

The City of Pahokee participated generously in the activities of the afternoon. City Manager Ken Schenck supervised organization details and the Maintenance Department was on hand to see that the park was in first class condition for the decorations committee. Colorful-crepe streamers, balloons and school banners filled the park. The Fire Department brought their truck which thrilled everyone and Pahokee police were seen making sure that everyone had a good time, which they did.

Other supporters and attendees included the Pahokee Head Start Parents Committee, Episcopal Church, Women of St. David's in the Pines in Wellington, City of Belle Glade, Publix, Wall-Mart, McDonald's, and VISTA through its support of Cynthia Ray, Glades Resource Coordinator, for Cities in Schools.

LOW BACK PAIN

If back pains are a way of life for you, the reasons can be varied and complex. Some may be pathological, but very often the cause is muscles which are either over or under-exercised which are producing spinal distortion. Vertebrae slip into abnormal positions, resulting in "pinched" and irritated nerves, which cause pain and even loss of function of the affected body part. Poor posture, or even emotional tension, can be the root cause.

On Saturday, April 25, 1992, we invite you to come by our stores and see our youth at work. We have set up a special program for our part-time employees so they can see what it is really like to work for Winn-Dixie as a manager. So, make sure to stop into our stores on April 25th and say hello to your new managers for a day. Let our young associates know how proud we are of the great job that they are doing for us.
